

Bed rest near the end.

A scary moment with blood.

False labor.

Long labor.

Gynecologist on vacation. Having to meet the new one then, who yells at you. He stands up. Stomach gurgle. Moving the baby.

Calling and son answering. Acting like a wigger.

Maybe when the baby comes they are broken up. Maybe she was going to have it without telling him.

Hormonal, almost gets in a fight with another pregnant person.

Does pregnant woman live with her sister. Or does that make her too savvy about kids.

Or is she concerned because her sister is miserable. Feels like she lost all her dreams.

The sister is lost in the middle. Not happy with kids, not happy with work. Never fully satisfied.

Husband is unhappy. Shutting down. Working more and more. Does he even need to?

Seth and husband bond. Sister hates Seth like he is about to ruin sister's life.

What if she catches him smoking pot at a moment where he is nervous. "Are you fucking kidding me?"

The parents come out for a visit.

Seth's parents could be in Canada or around and super Jewish, almost communist, like his. They don't take this seriously at all. They just let it flow. The pregnant woman likes them but thinks they are high or out of their minds. Not helpful.

Discussion of abortion. "I don't want to do it, I was just wondering if we should learn about it."

At the sonogram they see the egg.

He doesn't cry. A running thing with her pressuring him to cry. He finally does at some point.

He could crack and say he is too young for this.

He knows nothing about kids. Has no brothers and sisters. Overintellectualizes this. She takes him to the sister and the sister notices he doesn't connect and talk to the kids when they leave the room. They could watch it on the nanny cam. They have the super advanced nanny cam system. They could even tape it and show it to him. Not like a huge set piece, just a real moment.

Then they get in a big fight. "Who are you?!"

Don't pressure me to get married.

Married, I don't even know if I want to date you.

Seth could have an immature friend, who is more than willing to hit on girls with him and do drugs. Seth ultimately has to blow him off. Maybe at the end he visits with a gift for the baby.

Visiting Orthodox Jewish brother and she can't stop throwing up from goat.

If he eats chicken she can't be around him.

Should be distant, then close then huge blow up and separation then final reunion.